King II just got his job working at Amazon in the city. He is doing very well and is happy to be working at such a successful company.

He is scrolling through the app store and stumbles upon the Event Finder app in which he gives it a try.

He picked a tennis game to go attend because he always enjoyed tennis but didn't know about any of these events until he got on the app.

When he leaves his job, and since he is new to the city, he has nothing to do and is eager to find something.

He gets on the app and finds the event he likes and pays for it through the app.

He is now sitting in the stands watching his favorite tennis player play all because of Event Finder!

Ashley is always busy with her kids and her job. But this year, her kids are old enough to attend after school programs and they want to spend more time with their friends. Ashley finally has time to herself, so she decides to pick up an old hobby: painting.

Ashley knows she needs to find a mentor and she wants to connect with other students her age. She tries to find information about local art events by herself, but she is confused and overwhelmed by the amount of results.

Ashley almost gives up but then she decides to try out an app called Event Finder. She uses her location and interests to search for the events she is looking for.

The Event Finder search gives Ashley a curated list tailored to her needs. She sees exactly what she was looking for as well as dozens of other promising events she hadn't even considered.

Ashley uses the times listed with each entry to find events that are compatible with her schedule.

Ashley attends a free introductory art class, joins a weekly painting group made up of other moms, and even finds local art galleries that she knows her kids will love!
